SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT CONDUCTS YOUTH RESEARCH TO COMMEMORATE WORLD POPULATION DAY 2019

outh development is a priority area, government in its various spheres and tier, has prioritized. This is because the structure of the population, reveals the youthful nature of the population. The age groups, 19-24, 25-30, 31-35, forms part of the largest segment of the population. This requires government to focus its attention on youth development, in order to secure a brighter future for the country. Young people today are faced with different and complex struggles, ones that if not properly addressed, threaten to decimate the entire generation of youth. The known social challenges afflict the youth more than the elder population because of the inactivity or the willingaway of this important segment of the population. Some of the known challenges confronting the youth include: Unemployment;Lack of skills; Substance Abuse; HIV/AIDS and other Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs), Lack of support for youth entrepreneurship, and Heightened levels of hopelessness

Young people are dealing with one or more of these challenges at once and often succumb them due to the state of their psychology or negative mind-set that dictates to them that there are no solutions to the challenges they are facing.

In getting to the root causes and addressing the challenges faced by young people, the department collaborated with the Bureau of Market Research (BMR) on Tuesday, 23 July 2019 at the University of Mpumalanga to host a research seminar aimed at commemorating the World Population Day 2019. This focused on disseminating various researches on youth development and to keep youth development practitioners and policy-makers at large, abreast with the status quo as far as the youth is concerned.

Over 80 people were drawn from the cross-section of the employment sector, including experts in the field of youth development, who shared information on some of the most pertinent issues afflicting the youth today. Some of the papers presented by our guest experts included Commercialisation & Sexual Exploitation of Children in South Africa, the state of Sexual Exploitation in Ehlanzeni, Adolescent's Knowledge, Attitude, & Perceptions towards Sexual Reproductive Health & Rights in Mpumalanga, Children & Young Women, Trends observed by Childlin Mpumalanga, Perspective on Child Sexual Exploitation in Mpumalanga and turning Learners into Everyday heroes through the use of social media.

SOME OF THE MOST IMPORTANT TAKE-HOME NOTES FROM THE THE SEMINAR:

- the use of social media by the youth, especially school-going children, is rising and rising. The access to explicit contents remains a huge challenge and parents needs to monitor this carefully:
- cyber addiction as mentioned above, has the potential to expose children to human/child trafficking, sexual predators and other negative activities taking place on internet;
- the laws have been tightened regarding Sexual Offences where sex with a person below the age of 16, is deemed a criminal offense, punishable by a court of law
- a register of sexual offenders is kept; prospective employers are encouraged to peruse the register before hiring anyone to minimise exposing children and society to convicted sexual offenders
- the investing in youth health, youth education and youth entrepreneurship is of paramount importance in reaping the demographic dividend, currently being experienced. The Demographic Dividend is "the economic growth potential that can result from shifts in a population's age structure, mainly when the share of the working-age population is larger than the non-working-age share of the population".

REDEEMING COMMUNITIES FROM BECOMING BULLY AND CRIME ZONES FOR CHILDREN

he scourge of crimes committed by children and learner-on-learner violence in schools and communities is a cause for concern for the department. Children in conflict with the law has become a source of discomfort in families and communities in general.

The department has introduced programmes informed by the Child Justice Act (Act no 75 of 2008) that are designed to avert the children from the criminal justice system.

The programmes amongst others include the assessment of children in conflict with the law, placement to diversion programmes and compulsory placement/sentencing to a Secure Care centre or Child and Youth Care Centre.

The programmes are designed to develop the children in their capacity to deal with social ills such as anger management, low self- esteem, selfdetermination, peer pressure and career guidance.

Service providers in the field of Social crime prevention are accredited to provide Diversion Services and the programmes are also accredited to ensure that impact of those programmes are evaluated using a standardised framework.

The National Minister has put in place Provincial Quality Assurance teams that monitors the implementation of the Diversion programmes. These teams conduct the quality assurance and monitoring on a quarterly basis.

Mpumalanga has two Secure Care facilities or Child and youth care centres that provide services to children in conflict with law. The children in those facilities are placed or designated by courts where a court will issue an order stipulating the sentence of the child(example, child can be ordered to attend a Diversion programme for a specific period, or ordered to serve a sentence to a Secure Care centre/child and youth care centre/)

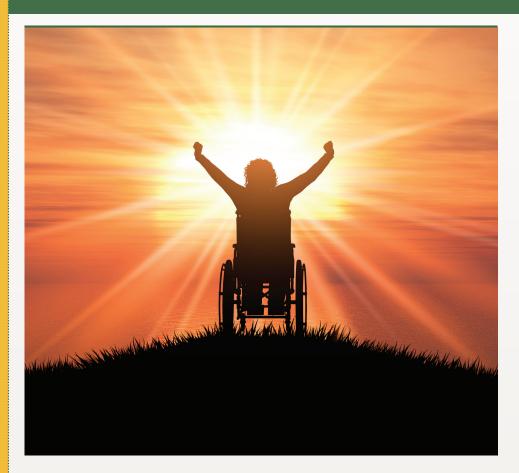

The department is also intensifying its prevention services or educational programmes in schools and communities. The educational programmes are aimed at creating awareness on parenting, consequences of crimes amongst children, drug abuse and other social ills.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING IS REAL EDUCATE YOURSELF TO PROTECT YOU AND THOSE CLOSER TO YOU

Although Human trafficking scope in South Africa remains a mystery, it poses a great concern as it has since became the country's centre of attention and priority focus area. Noting with great concern the number of reported cases of missing persons in the country, this has called on the introduction and implementation of strict visa laws and requirements with the view of curbing the issues of illicit trafficking in the country.

Human trafficking is the recruitment, transportation, transfer, harbouring or receipt of persons by means of the threat of use of force, or other forms of coercion, abduction, of fraud of deception, of the abuse of power or of a position of vulnerability or giving or receiving payments or benefits to achieve the consent of a person having control over another person for the purpose of exploitation.

ue to its hidden nature, it is not an easy task quantifying human trafficking in the country, however thousands of women, men, and children around the country fall into the trap of being trafficked in and out of the country every day for various reasons.

Traffickers target and recruit victims from diverse backgrounds with rural poor communities taking the lead, as victims are taken advantage of due to the nature of their poor living standards. In an attempt to curbing human trafficking, it is important to acknowledge that everyone and anyone can fall into the trap of being the next victim of human trafficking. Without knowledge of how traffickers operate and human trafficking itself, anyone from any background can find themselves doing odd jobs in a foreign country without their consent.

Although traffickers use different methods for getting attention from their targets, it is important to know and understand some of their strategies, tricks, levels and stages of trafficking they use to trap their clients.

Following are some of the tips that one might need to consider knowing as a measure to preventing and getting help for themselves or someone who has been trafficked.

How does trafficking work?

Trafficking process consists of three stages namely:

- Recruitment of a person
- Transportation of a person and
- Exploitation of a person.

How do Traffickers recruit their victims?

The recruitment process comprises of three elements on how contact was initiated between the individual and the recruiter.

- Forcible recruitment the victims are forcibly taken.
- Fully Deceptive Recruitment victims are lured by promises of employment or educational opportunities and /or financial gain and are fully deceived as to the true intentions of the traffickers.
